in collaboration with the MIT Turkish Student Organization presents

ARMENIAN COMPOSERS OF THE OTTOMAN PERIOD

Legendary Armenian performers of Boston join forces with a new generation of Turkish and American musicians in a concert honoring the work of revered Armenian composers of the late Ottoman period. These composers, teachers and recording artists were among the most prominent figures of the musical scene in Istanbul in the first half of the 20th century. They left behind a memorable legacy of songs and instrumental compositions which are still played throughout the Middle East.
